WONSTER MEMORIES #1

(the following is an excerpt from "The Art of Writing a Zine" copyright 1988 CULTURE CRINGE)

IMPRESS YOUR FRIENDS!

Is writing a zine a chore for you? A Delight? A tedious way to spend an afternoon? A challenge you meet at the ready with sweaty palms? Depending on how you approach writing a zine, you will or won't be thrilled to see any hard rules in print.

STOP- BEFORE PROCEEDING YOU MUST ACCEPT THE COOKIES TO UNLOCK FULL ARTICLE

ACCEPT COOKIES? CIRCLE ONE YES NO

USE A NUMBER 2 PENCIL TO MAKE YOUR DECISION IN CASE YOU MAKE A MISTAKE AND NEED TO CORRECT

IF "YES" IS CIRCLED ABOVE THEN [AND ONLY THEN] MAY YOU PROCEED

(continued) The notion of superimposing principles on an "art form" may gall you because it's unseemly to replace — or even modify — talent with mechanical principles. FOR EXAMPLE: A bright eyed student, zine publisher to be, enrolls in one of my ZINE PUBLISHING COURSES ©. The student typically wants to write a clever zine, and they may be encouraged or discouraged based on individual tastes which in turn is based on an experimental background that may or may not be valid. I SURELY HOPE YOU ARE TAKING NOTES. thank you S.L. for two years

Another idea: A mathematics instructor who taught, "two plus two are seven — because I like it that way," would be laughed out of class within the first two minutes. The geography teacher who taught, "the Monongahlea River is the longest river in the world; it's only the river I've navigated, and it's LONG," would last only until a student became forever cynical by learning that the teacher is substituting their own limited sphere of knowledge for incontrovertible, tested, proved fact.

THIS IS NOT HOW THE CULTURE CRINGE ZINE PUBLISHING COURSE © WORKS! QUITE THE CONTRARY.

Why can't the budding zine writer have the benefit of rules? Why can't an experienced zine writer like myself know which gears to engage? Why can't a non writer doggedly apply rules and write as well as someone who labels theirself a professional? Well, one reason is: the people we're trying to influence don't run on tracks. Or do they? You'll have to decide, after plowing through whichever sections of this zine that interest you.

THE PRECEDING WAS A EXCERPT FROM "THE ART OF WRITING A ZINE" AND IS ONLY A TASTE OF THE KNOWLEDGE THAT CAN BE OBTAINED FROM ONE OF THE MANY CULTURE CRINGE ZINE PUBLISHING COURSES. THANK YOU FOR YOUR TIME AND PLEASE ENJOY THE FOLLOWING CONTENT.

Your pal, CRingey

TV SHOW REVIEW OF THE ZINE!!
BEVERLY HILLS 90210 SEASON 2
EPISODE 13: HALLOWEEN

This episode was originally aired on halloween night during the great Minnesota blizzard of 1991, where nearly 40 inches fell!! SO a lot of people didn't get to see it because of power outages so I figured i'd review it here just in case. ANYWAYS this episode finds the gang getting ready for a HUGE ~~halowen~~ HALLOWEEN party that ends up taking place in a house that looks a lot like the house that has the HALLOWEEN bash in the movie The Midnight Hour! Ok back to the plot. So they go to this costume shop, run by that guy who's in every movie you can't seem to remember, and they all buy super wild boutique costumes. Dylan gets a gangster costume with a VERY realistic prop gun — there's NO WAY he could carry that around these days. Donna gets a costume that she won't show off cos its gonna be a surprise or something. Steve calls Dylan a "squeef". Stuff like that, ya know, normal teen behavior. OK so they get to the party and it turns out Donna is a MERMAID but uh-oh big problem, she can't walk in her ~~cosutme~~ costume, hilarity ensues. Kelly shows up and is wearing a super revealing burlesque outfit and everyone shits!! And not really in a good way. Kelly what the hell. In the meantime David and Scott go out to (no kidding) EGG CARS. Brandon stays home cos he doesn't dance (or really even party) and GUESS WHO shows up at the door, it's Emily Valentine. So they end up walking around town and in the process loses her nephew and niece in the crowd. The cops won't help. Turns out they were fine and chilling at Brandon's house the whole time hahaha. Brandon and Emily make out hardcore. OK BACK TO THE PARTY. Kelly is attracting all kinds of attention from skeezy dudes. Brenda is pissed. Donna is just being Donna, enough said. Dylan is playing it cool.

Oh i forgot to mention that Steve is dressed up like ZORRO.

MEANWHILE, Kelly meets this dude who went on to be in a few episodes of SEINFELD who's dressed like a cowboy. They start making out. He gets weird and pushy and traps her in a room. Luckily she gets saved by Brenda and Co right in the nick of time, then Dylan and Steve proceed to beat the dude's ass. That's pretty much it.

I give this episode 6/10 peach pits.

MONSTER MASH

ALBUM REVIEW: MONSTER MASH BY BORIS PICKETT AND THE CRYPT KICKERS (CARPAX 1962)

First off lemme tell ya that this album really COOKS, just when you think they can't throw any more at ya it just keeps slamming HIT after HIT after HIT right in your face! It needs to be mentioned that the Crypt Kicker band included Leon Russell, and he really used his talents to help the band swing and shimmy through some outta site trends and of course, the star of the show is MONSTER MASH. Some of my favorite songs include Irresistible Igor, Transylvania Twist, and Graveyard Shift. The album flows nicely and leaves the listener fully satisfied and ready for a repeat listen. Pick it up today at your local record store or through mail order if you can! I give this album 5/5 teala coils
